KU, Others Ask Questions Regarding Special Editions

Only two cases were heard at Hickman this week when the Circuit Court convened for its January term. Attorneys in both cases, one for child desertion and the other for grand larceny, filed motions for probation. At the same time, attorneys for the plaintiffs in the suit contesting the Hickman election sought to have 28 questions answered by the defendants, under oath.

Most of the questions concern a special edition of the Hickman Courier published on Saturday before the Tuesday general election which edition sought to comply with the law that the sample ballot must be published three days before the election.

The Hickman Courier and the Fulton Daily Leader published special editions at the request of County Court Clerk Dee Langford. Plaintiffs in the case are the Kentucky Utilities, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Hamby, Henry Halteman and Mrs. Mary Lee Mangold. They have filed suit to contest the validity of the election last November when Hickman voters chose to purchase the private utility.

Mrs. Mayne Stahr, one of the plaintiffs when the suit was filed, asked to have her name removed from the suit.

Meanwhile David R. Reed, a Paducah attorney has been named by the Court of Appeals to hear the suit instead of Judge Elvis J. Stahr, who was disqualified to sit in the case on a motion of KU, which swore that Stahr has a personal interest in the matter because he voted in the election.

Representing the plaintiffs in the suit is the law firm of Ogden, Brown, Robertson and Marshall of Louisville and James Warren of Fulton. The defense will be represented by attorneys Dee McNeill, James Ambler, John C. Bondurant and Lloyd C. Emery.

Hickman is the last Kentucky city exempt from the federal law limiting Tennessee Valley Authority's service territory. T. V. A. has promised Hickman a low-cost power contract when it acquires the system.

Reed said at Paducah he will make a full effort to try the case as soon as possible since both sides have expressed an eagerness.

Jottings

From

Jo's

Note Book

Nobody, but nobody would believe the things I could write in this column today if I went into detail. In the first place I CAN'T tell you all, because one of the things that happened to make you sob if you knew the whole story, is that I fell in the snow in Bowling Green. . . . and I imagine fractured, broke, bruised and generally injured my right arm. Typing is not one of the best ways I know to stop the pain. I aim to have it looked at when I get my finger nails clean enough to visit a doctor.

It goes like this: Last Tuesday afternoon I took off for Lexington, Ky. to attend the state meeting of the General Federation of Women's Club. Planned to break the trip by stopping at Bowling Green and proceeding to destination early next morning for noon meeting. Got snow-bound in Bowling Green. . . . When snow stopped decided to proceed to Louisville for press convention and talk before the Kentucky Petroleum Council. . . . Six hours from BG to Louisville over one huge block of ice. . . . Made speeches Thursday morning and noon. . . . Everybody knows I can't drive in the best of conditions. . . . left car in Louisville and proceeded to Frankfort with competent driver bringing car to capital city. . . . Intended to come home Saturday. . . . big joke. . . . snow-bound in Frankfort. . . . Intended to come home Sunday, missed plane. . . . came home Monday, left car in Frankfort. . . . no water at our house since last Thursday. . . . plumber gets water, all pipes burst. . . . no help at News office. . . . no washing at home. . . . getting plans for constructing Chic Sales special. . . . and you say you got troubles?

And even my friends are getting snake-bit. Ouida Jewell said she would help me with writing on Wednesday. She fell Tuesday night, broke her leg, is now in Jackson, Tenn. Hospital. Norma June McClanahan is ailing. . . . oh death, where is thy skating rink?

County Farmers Divert Lands To Conservation Use

Farmers in Fulton County as of December 14th had signed up to divert 387.4 acres from wheat production to conserving uses under the special voluntary 1963 wheat program, Roy Bard, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, has reported.

This is about 7.4 percent of the 5228 acres of allotments or small farm bases on the Fulton County farms signed.

The winter wheat sign-up period ran through December 14.

Nationally, as of December 13, farmers had signed up 3,947,392 acres for diversion from wheat to conserving uses. This is about 91.5 percent of the 12,521,648 acres of allotments or small farm bases on the 266,082 farms signed.

Jaycees Awarded Citations; Bosses, Members Honored

A total of 57 members and guests attended the Sixth Annual Jaycee "Bosses Night" banquet in Fulton Tuesday night at the Park Terrace Restaurant, honoring the bosses of member Jaycees and distinguished service of members.

Toastmaster Jim Butts presented awards to the following:

Outstanding young man—Paul Kasnow; Distinguished service—Ralph Puckett; Key Man—Bill Fossett.

Guest speakers included Dan Stewart, Jr., of Pineville, Ky., who is national vice-President and immediate past President of the Kentucky Jaycees, and Bob Conner of Jackson, Tennessee, immediate past national President of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Life memberships in the Fulton club were presented to former Fulton Jaycees Jimmy Young of Savannah, Tennessee and Richard Thompson of Bruceton, Tennessee; both were present.

Visiting Jaycees from Calvert City, Paducah, Murray and Madisonville were also present.

Mother Nature Postpones Annual Mother's March

All the mothers are ready and willing to participate in the annual Mother's March for polio. . . . all except one that is. . . . and that's Mother Nature. The bitter cold, the hazardous streets, and the incidence of illness in many homes has postponed the annual fund raising event until a later date, Paul Bates Fulton County March Chairman announced today.

"Just as soon as the weather permits our loyal workers to make their house to house solicitations we will announce the date," Mr. Bates said.

Mrs. Pigue Is 1963 Heart Fund Drive Chairman

Appointment of Mrs. Ramelle Pigue, 308 Third Street, Fulton, as chairman for the Fulton area in the forthcoming 1963 Heart Fund Drive has been announced by William T. Hockensmith, Frankfort insurance executive, State campaign chairman. The drive begins on February 1 and continues through the month.

Mrs. Pigue, who has served as Fulton chairman for the past two Heart Fund Drives, will have the assistance of the Fulton Business and Professional Women's Club, the announcement continued.

Describing the Kentucky Heart Association's clinics and similar community service projects, professional and lay education, diagnostic and surgical equipment purchases and financing of heart research done by Kentucky doctors as "key factors in the almost miraculous progress we are seeing in the fight against heart and blood vessel diseases," Mr. Hockensmith urged "no let-down" in Heart Fund contributions. Most Kentucky communities will conduct door-to-door "Heart Sunday" collections on February 24, he announced.

Mrs. Batts Is Leader Of Band Uniform Drive

The Fulton High School Band Parents Organization has named Mrs. Robert Batts General Chairman of the Band Uniform Drive. Mrs. J. A. Poe is Chairman of the special Band Parents Drive. Mrs. G. F. Bushart, Mrs. Seldon Reed and Mr. Kenneth Turner will serve on the publicity committee. Further committees will be named at a later date.

The drive for funds will open February 1 with a letter to all Band Parents requesting their contribution toward the purchase of the new uniforms. It is hoped that the response will be generous and wholehearted.

An important meeting of all band parents is being called for Tuesday, February 5, in the Band Room, at 7:30 P. M. All band parents are urged to attend.

Tennessee Governor Proposes Vast Tax Increases To Maintain Current Programs

Governor Frank Clement told the Tennessee Legislature Tuesday: "I believe the needs of our people for improved services in important programs of State government are urgent. I believe that political responsibility demands that they be met and paid for on a current basis." Seeking to bring in about thirty million dollars in new tax money the Governor proposed to extend the three per cent sales tax to other services and add or increase eight other taxes. The message from Clement brought comment from many business people on the Kentucky side of the border regarding the campaign promise of gubernatorial candidate A. B. (Happy) Chandler that he would remove the sales tax from food, clothing and medicine in Kentucky without injuring many of the State's programs, particularly education.

Said one school official in Kentucky: "The vast increases in taxes in Tennessee to maintain the programs of progress in that State should be a startling reminder to Kentuckians that any candidate who promises to remove about $34,000,000.00 in taxes from one source, without adding that amount and more to other sources, is not telling the truth to the people he seeks to serve, if elected."

Clement proposed to extend the 3 percent sales tax to water, electricity, gas and dry cleaning and to repairs on personal property. He said this would bring in $13,740,000 a year of which $1,000,000 would be distributed to local governments.

The other new taxes and the amount he estimated they would return to the state in a year were:

Cigarettes—An additional 2 cents per pack, bringing the total to 7 cents; $7,775,000.

Excise tax—An increase of 1-4 of one percent; $1,500,000.

Alcoholic beverages—An increase of 50 cents per gallon; $1,330,000.

Drivers' licenses—A $2 increase to $4 each; $2,000,000.

Motor vehicle license fees—A

$2 increase, bringing the total, including county clerks' fees, to $1 for light cars and $1.50 for heavy vehicles; $2,500,000.

Motor fuel tax—An increase of one cent per gallon; $575,000. This tax does not apply to gasoline, but rather to diesel fuel.

Soft drink bottles—one and one-half percent gross receipts tax; $500,000.

Transfer tax on realty and mortgages—An increase of 10 cents per $100 on deeds of trust and mortgages and a 15-cent increase on deeds generally; $1,900,000.

The excise tax applies to corporation earnings. The increase would boost it from its present 3.75 percent to 4 percent.

The present tax on distilled spirits in $2.00 per gallon, and the increase would boost it to $2.50. The tax is paid by the distiller and passed on to the wholesaler, retailer and, eventually, the consumer. The increase would boost the price of whisky 10 cents a fifth.

The motor fuel tax increase would boost that levy to 8 cents per gallon.

Clement told the General Assembly last week that an additional $61 million in taxes would be needed to finance his $1.2 billion program over the next two years. His recommendations were made in a written message to both houses today.

Administration leaders said bills for the state's first new taxes in 8 years would not be introduced today.

"While other alternatives to this program for increasing revenue have been studied, we believe this combination to be an equitable one," Clement said.

"It has been felt that new taxation should be broadly based. This will result from the extension of the sales tax to utilities and certain repairs."

Disaster Plagues Hickman With Dobson Store Cave-In

The owner and operators of Dobson's Store in Hickman are still trying to fix the amount of loss when half the interior of the store collapsed shortly before 1 p. m. Monday, January 23.

The upper floor, balcony and main floor on one side of the building suddenly fell in, dumping tons of brick and timber into the basement. The upper floor fell more than 40 feet.

Nobody was injured. John M. Statham an employee, was thrown out into the street from the doorway of a gift shop next door.

An unofficial estimate of the loss, counting the inventory only, was $75,000.

Mrs. Ellis Dobson, owner of the store, had been standing at the cashier's stand only a few minutes before the collapse. One or two customers were in the part of the store which remained intact. Mrs. Dobson's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Falkoff, operators of the store, were in Dallas. They flew back Tuesday.

A doorway was being cut in the brick wall between the store and the gift shop next door, also owned by Mrs. Dobson. This may have caused the collapse, said store officials.

The roof didn't fall and apparently is still in good condition.

Plans are indefinite now. Store officials are trying to determine whether stock in the ruins can be safely removed before rebuilding starts.

It was the second disaster to befall a store on Hickman's main street, Clinton St., in less than a month. A $30,000 fire recently destroyed a grocery there.

Gene Hatfield To Be Speaker At Woman's Club

The general meeting of the Fulton Woman's Club will be held Friday, February 1, at 2:30 p. m. The guest speaker will be Gene Hatfield, who visited Japan during his service in the U. S. Army. Slides of points of interest in Japan will be shown. Scenes in metropolitan Tokyo, Tokyo gardens, and Shrines in national parks are a sample of the films to be presented.

The meeting will be held at the Fulton Woman's Club building. Members are reminded that dues paid on Friday will avoid the penalty.

Contract Given For Amphitheater Near Murray, Ky

A $117,924 contract to build the Kenlake amphitheater for outdoor drama was awarded Tuesday to the Charles E. Story Construction Company of Benton, Ky. Work on the 1,100-seat structure will begin as soon as weather permits.

The new amphitheatre, to be one of a "chain" of similar State theatres across Kentucky, will open this summer. The site has already been graded and shaped by the Kentucky Department of Highways.

The cup-like amphitheatre, to be located at Kentucky Lake State Park near the bathhouse and beach area, faces Egner's ferry bridge, which can be seen in the distance. Theatersgoers may look down on a "land stage" presentation or, with the stage bare, out across to a barge or boat, or a water spectacle.

Campus Lights To Be Presented February 21-23

"Campus Lights," Murray State College musical production has been scheduled for Feb. 21-23.

Rehearsals for the show have been underway since early December, and the designing of sets and the arranging of music for the show has been going on for months, according to Paul Davis, director of "Campus Lights." The entire cast will remain on campus during between-semester vacation to rehearse and polish the show.

Tickets for "Campus Lights" are now on sale in the MSC Fine Arts Building. Out-of-town orders should be mailed to Richard Farrell, College Station, Murray, Kentucky. All seats are reserved and cost $1.50 each.

GIVE TO FIVE FUNDS

Murray Industrial Fund Drive Is Oversubscribed

Murray's drive to sell $150,000 worth of stock in its new Industrial Foundation will go over the top.

James Johnson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said $141,850 worth of stock has already been sold.

Promises of other stock purchases which the foundation officials say are certain to come through amount to about $12,500.

"It looks like we're going to wind up with $160,000 to $165,000," said Johnson.

The promises of other stock purchases are from businesses whose ownership is out of town and require approval from home offices.

Johnson said he feels the goal of $150,000 will be reached or surpassed.

The fund will be used to establish an Industrial Park and to promote Murray as an industrial location. The foundation may use the capital to buy and improve land, make loans to industries or in any other way that will help bring industry to the city.

Johnson said the enthusiastic response of Murrayans has been gratifying.

The stock was sold for $500 a share. In several instances, two people have gone together to buy one share of stock in the foundation, said Johnson.

"The enthusiasm of the community has been remarkable," he said.

Several organizations deferred fund-raising drives voluntarily so as not to interfere with the stock sale.

It's Sunny Shores For Popular Riddles As Retirement Time Beckons

By OUIDA JEWELL

On Wednesday night of next week, one of West Kentucky's most liked and respected citizens, Forrest H. Riddle, commercial supervisor, will be justly honored by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company with a retirement dinner at the Park Terrace Restaurant in South Fulton.

Mr. Riddle had served his company for 47 years upon his retirement effect as of Jan. 1 of this year.

Mr. Riddle began his telephone career as a contract manager in Sorgho, Ky. He later served as manager at Sturgis, Morganfield, Dawson Springs, Fulton, Mayfield and Murray.

During retirement, Mr. and Mrs. Riddle plan to visit with their sons in Ohio and California.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddle will continue to reside at 327 Backusburg Road, Mayfield.

Among those attending the retirement dinner Wednesday night were: from Louisville, C. Hunter Green, vice president and general manager of Southern Bell, and Sam Ridgway, general commercial manager; from Paducah, Marvin W. Orgill, district manager, Paducah District; Miss Francis Haynes, district commercial clerk of the district manager's office, A. H. Bryan, district plant supervisor and president of the Purchase Council Pioneers. (A Pioneer is one who has had 21 completed years of service with Southern Bell) and Lee Curry, Paducah manager.

From Frankfort, J. M. Sanders, assistant to Mr. Green; from Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brown, group manager of Graves, Fulton, Hickman and Calloway counties, James C. Moss, Commercial representative and Garnett G. Cobert, Central office foreman.

From Fulton, H. D. Hayes, Fulton group manager, Riley J. Allen, Fulton plant foreman, Miss Ouida Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. Lela Stubblefield and Mrs. Daisy Terry; from Hopkinsville, Louis B. Panke, group manager; from Murray, Tom Brewer, Manager, Mr. and Mrs. Max Beale, Mrs. Jessie Crago, Mrs. Odelle

Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Brown, retired after many years as manager at Murray, and Mrs. Cleteel Butterworth, retired operator;

From Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Erl Sensing.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Waterfield, of Clinton and Frankfort were invited, but because of a company board meeting on the same evening, the Waterfields were not able to attend.

At the dinner Wednesday night Mr. Green presented Mr. Riddle with his "Service Emblem." The Retirement Service Emblem has a star for each five years of service that one has completed. Each star has a small diamond. Mr. Riddle's pin had nine stars.

A. H. Bryan presented Mr. Riddle with a "Life Time Membership" in the Pioneers.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddle have two sons, Forrest Alton Riddle, who is a teacher at Alliance High School, Alliance, Ohio, and William Harold Riddle, who is an actor and does Christian youth work in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddle made their home in Fulton from April 1929 until May, 1950.

Mr. Riddle is a member of the Lions Club, having served as president of the local club, a member of the Elks Lodge, member of Masonic F. & A. M., and of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Riddle is a member of the First Baptist Church and was

Under Proposal Submitted By Kennedy Most Citizens Would Pay Less In Taxes

For some Americans, an end to income taxes; for most, a cut; for a handful, a boost—that's the intent of President Kennedy's proposed tax changes.

And, for 6.5 million Americans, the changes also would mean a shift in the way they figure their taxes.

Those 6.5 million taxpayers would be nudged from itemizing their deductions into taking the standard 10 percent deduction. For them, this would make the tax cut less juicy than it might have been.

President Kennedy said he does not want the changes to start until later this year and take full effect until 1965. And, they won't take effect at all if Congress does not approve them.

At present single persons with incomes of $667 and married couples with incomes of $1,633 must pay some taxes. The president has recommended adopting a minimum standard deduction. This would have the effect of letting people stand free of taxes until their incomes reach $900 if they are single or $1,500 if they are married. Between 750,000 and a million Americans would go off the tax rolls.

On the other end of the ladder, a few individuals in the highest income brackets, particularly if they have special interests in such fields as oil or real estate, might feel a boost in taxes. So far, there has been no estimate of how many are affected, but they likely would number only a few.

But, for most Americans between the very low incomes and the very high incomes, the most vital part of the president's proposals would cut their taxes and alter their way of listing deductions.

A married man with two children has an adjusted gross income of $5,000. Now, he itemizes his deductions, contributions, state and local taxes, medical expenses, and others, and deducts $1,100. His total tax is $300.

Under the changes, he could deduct only $850.

But, because of the proposed tax cuts by 1965, his total income tax, despite his lower deductions, would be $245, a cut of $55 for him.

Another typical taxpayer also with two children, has an income of $5,000 and took the standard deduction. He now pays $420. Under the proposed changes, he would pay $296 by 1965.

The total tax cuts for taxpayers who now use the standard deductions will be greater than for those who itemize their deductions.

For some taxpayers, the point now may be reached where it makes more sense to use the standard deduction than the itemized deductions. The President estimates that this would occur in the case of 6.5 million taxpayers.

Of the 51 million taxpayers in the United States, about half now itemize their deductions.

STOP!—Large, reflectorized stop signs like this will be standard equipment on all school buses purchased in the future by Kentucky school districts. The sign, mounted on the side of the bus, will be flipped out whenever the vehicle stops, giving motorists in both directions an easily visible warning to stop. The regulation requiring the new signs has been adopted by the State Board of Education. Displaying the sign here is Louis Yandell, director of the Division of Pupil Transportation of the Kentucky Department of Education.

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission.
By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week, for the first time since Morgan's Confederate raiders on the day after Christmas had destroyed the Louisville and Nashville Railroad bridge over Bacon Creek, eight miles from Mumfordsville, L. & N. crews were able to run trains from Louisville to the north end of the destroyed trestle works at Muldraugh's Hill, and operate other trains from the south end of the trestle works to Nashville.

However, freight from the U. S. supply base at Louisville consigned to the huge Union Army of the Cumberland in Tennessee, still had to be unloaded at Muldraugh's Hill and hauled in wagons around the place where two wooden trestles, each 500 feet long, were being rebuilt, and then reloaded on trains which would take it on to Nashville. The two great trestles had been burnt by Morgan's men on December 28, the day after they had captured Elizabethtown near by. The Louisville Journal said the trestles would be repaired "soon," but gave no target date for completing the rebuilding.

The fiery Unionist editor of the Louisville Journal, George D. Prentice, seemed to have lost patience with the Union officers and soldiers on leave who thronged Falls City places of entertainment. "A physician informs us," he wrote, "that any officer or soldier who has the physical ability to spend his time in dissipation in barrooms during the day and his nights in enjoyment at the theater may be regarded as eminently fitted for service in the fields. The question then naturally asserts itself, why do not the military authorities of Louisville rid the city of the army of loungers who sport their shoulder-straps and flaunt their uniforms in the faces of those who are, in the way of taxation, contributing to the payment of their salaries, for which no return is rendered in the form of services?"

Nearly all Kentuckians who favored the Confederacy had learned by 1863 to avoid making public criticisms of President Lincoln and his administration. Complaints which were being heard in increasing volume 100 years ago this week were being sounded by Unionists, and they were directed at Lincoln's signing of the Emancipation Proclamation, which was regarded in some quarters as a betrayal of the very men who had kept Kentucky from seceding, since they had relied upon the President's statement that he had no intention of interfering with slavery.

The Kentucky legislature by this time had only Union men as members, for the military governor at the last election had issued an order that no one "hostile in opinion to the government" could be a candidate. However, some who at the August of 1862 election had passed that test had since then become "hostile in opinion." Senator Martin P. Marshall of Mason County introduced a resolution denouncing the "culpable action" of Mr. Lincoln "in the assertion of a war power nowhere delegated by the Constitution."

FROM THE FILES:— Turning Back The Clock—

Dear Jo:

Please let me express my sincere appreciation for your part in the recent Regional Travel Conference in Paducah.

We are looking forward to an expanded travel industry in the Western part of Kentucky as a result of this conference.

We are hoping that these Regional Councils will be very active and will play an important part in the development of an economic travel base for Kentucky.

Thanks again for your fine contribution.

Yours truly,

Dear Jo,

I enjoyed your "Jottings" in your January 10, issue. As I read it I felt to musing; how I'm one of your new subscribers; how I came to be; how much I'm enjoying The News; how I enjoy reading about our friends in Fulton and Fulton County; how interesting it is to figure out possible relationships of people with similar names to our friends and acquaintances of yesteryear.

I am a new subscriber because my aunt, Mrs. Edna Alexander, of Crutcherfield, sent us the paper for a year as a Christmas present. Despite her advanced age she is still interested in all her neices and nephews. She bears in her heart the eternal spirit of Christmas.

This is the first time in twenty-three years we've had a local paper regularly, although my wife's mother, Mrs. Daisy Bondurant of Cayce, sends us clippings nearly every week.

I was teacher and coach at Cayce in 1934-40 and Evelyn taught first grade there in 1932-40. So there is rarely an issue that doesn't bear news of friends, relatives or acquaintances.

We got a big kick out of the article on my good friend, Buck Meneses as Kentucky Colonel. He was one of my ball players in 1938-40.

Best wishes,
Kenneth Oliver

Dear Jo:

I read your editorial concerning the television program, "Break-thru," and share with you a great deal of enthusiasm for the goals of this series.

I thought you might be interested to know that we have it scheduled to run on WPSD-TV on Sundays at 1:00 p. m. beginning February 3.

Congratulations for all your good work on the Amphitheater. Looks like the project is sailing right along.

Dear Sir:

A. B. Chandler would have us think that he has been the principal mover in the Kentucky school system and in raising teachers' salaries.

This is false. These things have been accomplished with the minimum foundation for education law passed in the 1954 session of the legislature two years before Chandler was Governor.

When the education bill was passed, Chandler actively fought it in his newspaper, the Woodford Sun.

Sincerely,
R. S. Penn

Dear Friend Jo:

If YOU, and all the rest of us, would only practice what YOU preached in your prayer, "SLOW ME DOWN LORD", in your column last week, what a difference it would make in this old world, and how it would help relieve the congested conditions at all hospitals, as it is almost impossible to get in one now wherever you go.

I thought this prayer so good that I am filing it away for future reference, and trust you will do the same, AND PRACTICE IT, because the Lord will not help anyone that will not do their part. I believe Paul will say AMEN to this clause.

As you folks have not had ANY cold weather this winter, we are sending you another load, as it is banking up in the North again today, and perhaps you know what that means out here, and should be here by tomorrow, and there by the week end.

Note, I did not even mention c-s, nor Happy.

WPSD-TV Plans Programs Aimed At Corn Growing

An educational series of four seminars on how to grow corn more efficiently will be seen on WPSD-TV next month. Sponsored by Geigy Agricultural Chemicals, the programs will be seen at 7:30 A. M. each Saturday in February, beginning February 2nd, as part of the station's farm programming.

"Atop the Fence Post", a live studio program usually seen in that time-slot, has been moved to 7:00 A. M. on Saturdays for the month of February only. The Geigy Farm Seminars in separate weekly programs will cover the subjects of Minimum Tillage; Farm Management; Soil; and Weed Control.

The purpose of these programs is to bring the working experience of participants to progressive corn growers; and the latest information on growing corn more profitably in regard to equipment, practices and materials. A different panel will participate for each of the 4 discussion topics. Panelists will include County Agents; agricultural research and extension personnel; professional farm management and credit specialists, and leading farmers representing different types of farming operations.

To be seen on February 2nd is the seminar on "Minimum Tillage." Others and dates: "Farm Management", February 9th; "Soil", February 16th, and "Weed Control", February 23rd. All programs begin at 7:30 A. M. Atop the Fence Post programming during February will include a 4-H automotive demonstration, a discussion presented by the Paducah Graded-Milk Producers Association, the National Farmers Organization and the Kentucky-State Division of Forestry.

GOOD SPEECH!

Fulton City Manager James Robey spoke to the members of the Milton P-TA group last week. His subject concerned matters of vital interest to his listeners. Another speaker on the program was County Sanitarian Harry Barry.

British Government Tries Pay Television To Improve Programming, Remove Violence

The British Government recently announced a trial of pay television in several areas of the country in 1964. The government paper announcing the decision reflected concern over "excessive violence and excessive triviality" on television screens.

Another government report on the subject, dealing specifically with crime and the increasing exhibition of violence on commercial television stated that crimes of violence have trebled since 1951. Most of this sharp increase occurred after 1957, when American-style and American commercialized television shows, began appearing in volume, the report said.

This should give every thinking American food for thought. We have been allowing our children to be subjected to the most sordid mass of crime and violence, via our commercial television, for many years—for commercial consideration.

And there is a definite problem for Americans. The British propose to allow both the British Broadcasting Corporation (government operated) and the Independent Television Authority (private) to televise pay programs.

What is the answer to this dilemma? We do not want government television, though one government channel might be very worthwhile—for official information, whether, emergency alerts, farm news, presidential press conferences, recruitment information, accurate patriotic and historical presentations, etc. We also may be forced into pay television, which would not include commercials.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

A Teen-Ager Tells A Story

WHAT DO TEEN-AGERS want, or expect, from their parents?

Volumes have been written about what parents should expect from their teen-age children. Eminent psychologists have written profound articles to explain why adolescents think, speak and act as they do. Teen-agers themselves have been silent for the most part about their thoughts and emotions. They have been even more reticent about what they expect of their parents.

In the February issue of DECISION, monthly magazine of The Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, a sophomore student at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., writes a frank and perceptive letter to his parents.

ents, the "Dear People I Live With."

"The problem as I see it," he writes, "is that you won't listen to me at the first, before you begin pointing out my errors. And the less you listen, the more I am tempted to think I am right."

Making an honest appraisal of the mistakes made by youth as well as age, this student offers a solution built on the faith in Christ that he shares with his parents.

"Just take my life and turn it over to God in your prayers and trust Him to watch over me," he writes. "Trust can do strange things. I think it would help to trust me a little too. You are right; there are temptations, but listen! This is for the record. If you believe that I am honest and can be trusted, I will be."

He concludes with a challenge: "With Christ living in us and reconciling us to one another, there's bound to be a better atmosphere. How about trying it, Mom? Dad? I'm willing."

Children Thrive on Compassion In March of Dimes Arthritis Fight

"We study the child, not the laboratory report."

When Dr. Jane Borges, director of the March of Dimes-financed Arthritis Special Treatment Center at the Home for Crippled Children in Pittsburgh, Pa., says this, she isn't trying to put the laboratories out of business.

But she is trying—and succeeding—in putting children stricken with rheumatoid arthritis back in the important business of leading nearly normal lives.

Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, which afflicts 30,000 youngsters in the United States, is a cruel disease which comes and goes like a thief in the night. Seemingly healthy children suddenly contract high fever, swollen and aching joints, rash, anemia, and severe involvement of body organs. Many suffer deformities of the limbs. Total or partial disability often occurs.

Despite continuing research, neither the cause of juvenile rheumatoid arthritis nor the reason for its unpredictable cycle of recurrence is yet known.

Prevent Side-Effects

What Dr. Borges and a growing number of experts in the treatment of rheumatic diseases do believe they know is how to prevent much of the permanent physical, mental and social scarring which have been agonizing by-products of this disease for so long a time. Rejecting old theories of prolonged bed rest and virtual isolation, these innovators have introduced the rheumatoid arthritis child to programs of intensive therapy and close contact with children of the same age group. They encourage regular school attendance. At the same time, education of the family in all aspects of the illness is begun early by the physician with diligent follow-up by the social worker.

Successful Results

In most cases, successful results have been achieved. At the March of Dimes-supported center in Pittsburgh, for example, Dr. Borges last September admitted a 12-year-old girl who could not move her shoulders, elbows, or arms. She contracted rheumatoid arthritis at age six and had been in and out of hospitals since that time. When she was at home, she was rarely taken outside and saw other children only infrequently. She was painfully shy, took little interest in her studies.

Today, nearly a year later, this same girl is still confined to a wheel chair. She must attend many of her classes at the Home's branch of the Pittsburgh school system while in traction. Other complications persist.

However, daily baths in the Hubbard tank, used so successfully by polio victims, and twice-daily physical therapy have restored the use of her arms and hands. Occupational therapy—she is just now finishing a throw rug—has restored movement to her once-frozen shoulders. The challenge of competition with her schoolmates has transformed her into an excellent student.

Child in Pain

In another case, a six-year-old girl, after four years of operations and assorted treatment, was unable to adjust to school and playmates because of intermittent pain and the childhood awareness that she was the only child with a brace.

Placed among children with similar problems, she was exposed to the physical and social therapies of Dr. Borges' program. She went back home six months later "a different child... obedient... getting along happily with brothers, sisters and playmates," according to a grateful mother.

Dr. Borges, a trim, vibrant woman, views her work at the March of Dimes-financed center and its results this way: "The laboratory reports on these children, after we have worked with them for a time, are still the same. The disease is still there. "But the individual is not the same person we saw in the beginning."

"By also treating the emotional and environmental problems associated with juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, not just the physical ones, we are often able to change attitudes of despair to ones of cheerfulness and hope."

A prominent Canadian physician and specialist in juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, Dr. William M. Gibson, recently described the ideal treatment setting as "an area where personnel acquainted with the problem of arthritis in children are present every time the patient is seen."

Arthritis Special Treatment Centers, supported by local chapters of The National Foundation with March of Dimes funds, are already providing this service in Pittsburgh through Dr. Borges, and through her colleagues in many other American cities.

Additional centers are planned—centers of hope where parents can read the future in their children's faces, not in the laboratory reports.

News From Our Boys In The SERVICE

ETAINE AB, France — Airman First Class Rudy L. Cleveland of Pittsburgh, Kan., has been selected Outstanding Airman of the month here.

Airman Cleveland, a United States Air Force administrative specialist, was selected for the honor in recognition of his exemplary conduct and performance of duty.

The airman, a former student at Pittsburg High School, is the son of F. L. Southard of 913 E. Fifth, Pittsburg. Airman Cleveland is married to the former Lavetta Deems of Pittsburg.

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. — Marine Staff Sergeant Leroy Hicks, son of Mrs. Norah Lynch of Route 5, Fulton, Ky., returned to Southern California in December with other members of the Fifth Marine Expeditionary Brigade after serving with the United States quarantine forces in the Caribbean.

The brigade members were among 18,000 Marines and Navy-men embarked in more than 20 amphibious ships on the West Coast for the quarantine.

Passing through the Panama Canal, the ships went on station and remained in the Caribbean until Dec. 2. They arrived in California ports on Dec. 16.

SHEPPARD AFB, Tex. — Airman Second Class Lonnie F. Morgan of Hickman, Ky., is being reassigned to Davis-Monthan AFB, Ariz., following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for missile facilities specialists here.

Airman Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Morgan of Route 1, Hickman, was trained to operate and inspect the ground support equipment for the Titan II missile.

A graduate of Fulton County High School, the airman entered the service in February 1962.

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, HAWAII — Army PFC Robert W. Hunter, 23, of Hickman, Ky., is participating with other members of the 25th Infantry Division in a three-week training exercise in Hawaii.

Hunter's unit, Company B of the division's 14th Infantry, has moved by sea and air from its home station at Schofield Barracks on Oahu to the Army's Pohakuloa Training Area on Hawaii for combined mobility and firepower exercises with other divisional units.

Assigned as a gunner in the company, Hunter entered the Army in September 1961 and arrived in Hawaii the following December. He received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

Hunter, son of Mrs. Juanita B. Creed, 107 Wellington, was graduated from Hickman High School in 1957 and was employed by the Corps of Engineers, Memphis, Tenn., before entering the Army. He attended Murray State College. His wife, Margaret, lives in Honolulu, Hawaii.

SELFRIDGE AIR FORCE BASE, MICH. — Sergeant George R. Newton, son of Mrs. Sarah N. Newton, Route 4, Hickman, Ky., recently reenlisted in the Regular Army while serving as a member of Headquarters, Battery of the 28th Artillery Group at the base. Sergeant Newton is a 1959 graduate of Fulton County High School.

BAUMHOLDER, GERMANY — Army PFC Fred L. Rice of Hickman, Ky., and other members of the 8th Infantry Division's 16th Artillery, recently took part in Exercise SHAKER in Baumholder, Germany.

Brig. Gen. John K. McCormick, Commander of the 8th Division Artillery, commended the men of the artillery on their performance during the live-fire training exercise.

Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester B. Rice, Route 4, is a surveyor in the artillery's Headquarters Battery in Baumholder. He entered the Army in February 1961, completed basic training at Fort Hood, Tex., and arrived overseas in July 1961. He was last assigned at Fort Sill, Okla.

The 25-year-old soldier is a 1955 graduate of Hickman High School. Before entering the Army, Rice was engaged in farming.

NORFOLK, Va. — Larry J. Elliot, Aviation Machinist's mate third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie E. Elliot of route 2, Fulton, Ky., has returned with Helicopter Anti-Submarine Squadron Three to Norfolk, Va., after serving with the United States quarantine forces in the Caribbean.

The squadron was embarked in the aircraft carrier USS Wasp, an anti-submarine warfare support ship.

Senior Citizens Services Listed In New Booklet

"Services Available to Kentucky Senior Citizens," a 48-page digest published in November by the Kentucky Commission on Aging, is in great demand over the state. Donald L. Beckhart, executive director of the Commission, has reported that 18,000 copies of the booklet have been distributed thus far.

"We expect to receive many more requests during the coming month," Beckhart said. The digest is free on request from the Kentucky Commission on Aging, 600 West Cedar St., Louisville 3, Ky.

It contains material on education and recreation, employment opportunities, finances (including Social Security), health care, legal advice, suitable housing, nursing and convalescent homes, homes for the aged and infirm, and some public services listed by county.

Robert Matthews, Finance Chief To Make Race For Attorney General

ROBERT MATTHEWS

State Finance Commissioner Robert Matthews today announced he is a candidate for the office of attorney general in the 1963 elections.

Matthews, a familiar figure in Kentucky political circles, is the first candidate to announce for attorney general from either party.

Matthews said he is making his race on the basis of his State service, which began with the attorney general's office in 1948, administrative experience as finance commissioner, and his private practice in the field of law.

Under Atty. Gen. Jo M. Ferguson, Matthews was elevated to the rank of first assistant attorney general in 1959.

"My experience in State government and particularly that in the attorney general's office has given me some basis for thinking that I can serve the people of Kentucky in this office to which I have aspired for a long time," Matthews said.

Matthews will be 40 years old in September. He was reared in Shelbyville and is the son of the late Robert F. Matthews, a prominent Shelby County attorney.

He has been associated with his brother, Ben G. Matthews, in private law practice at Shelbyville since 1949.

First appointed to State government in 1948, Matthews has served under three attorneys general. He was first named by the late Attorney General A. E. Funk as a special legal advisor to the Department of Revenue, a post Matthews held for two years.

He was reappointed under Attorney General J. D. Buckman, Jr., and served as the assistant attorney general for the Revenue Department from 1955 to 1956. During the five-year interruption in State service Matthews practiced law and farmed.

When the office of the attorney general was assumed by Ferguson in 1956, Matthews was again named as assistant attorney general. He served several departments as legal counsel, primarily the Department of Education.

In 1959 Ferguson promoted Matthews to the rank of first assistant attorney general.

ant attorney general.

As commissioner of finance Matthews has been responsible for the department which budgets and accounts for all funds and regulates purchases for state government. He also had supervision of the State Engineering Staff, the State Local Finance Office, the Division of Services, which maintains state buildings, and the State Archives and Records Service.

Matthews' finance post also made him administrator of the State Property & Buildings Commission, which has charge of all state real estate properties and which approves such matters as the issuance of bonds for various state activities.

He was named in 1961 as coordinator of the state's Emergency Resource Planning Committee and in 1962 was appointed chairman of the State School District Audit Committee.

In his capacity with the Emergency Resource Planning Committee, Matthews has guided the formulation of statewide plans which would take effect in the event of a nuclear disaster, and has advised the governor in matters affecting the State's preparations to meet such emergencies.

As chairman of the School District Audit Committee, Matthews noted that he has had a continuing opportunity to work with local school districts and the State Department of Education. This committee approves all requests for periodical and special audits for local districts.

In supervising the preparation of the State budget, Matthews said he has paid special attention to the advancement of Kentucky's public schools and institutions of higher education.

Matthews is an overseas veteran of World War II with U. S. Navy service on destroyers and destroyer escorts in both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets. He entered the Navy as an apprentice seaman and was separated as a lieutenant senior grade.

He was educated in the public schools in Shelbyville and secured his law degree upon return from service. Matthews said he will resign sometime this month.

Matthews, his wife, Betty Buntin Matthews, and their two sons live in Shelbyville.

A frequent visitor here during the past ten years, Mr. Matthews plans an early trip to Fulton County to meet personally with his friends and supporters. He has not as yet named his county campaign chairman, but expects to do so by next month.

ON THE JOB!

Since the beginning of a Federal training program last year to help areas of chronic unemployment, more than 700 Kentuckians have enrolled in free job-retraining programs, the State Department of Economic Security reports.

KOOKY PRECISION

Baltimore — The class of 1954 at Forest Park High School scheduled, of all things, an "Eight and One-Half Year Reunion." Mrs. Henry Mann, reunion committee secretary, said the event would be celebrated with its exact factional designation because many previous attempts to get together had failed. "We always were a kooky class," she said.

BUILT HIS HOME!

In 1796, a young stone mason helped lay the foundation for the governor's residence at Frankfort. Thirty years later, the same man, Thomas Metcalfe, made his home there as Kentucky's ninth governor. The building served as the Executive Residence until the present one was constructed in 1914.

LINGUIST, TOO!

English contains many technical words of Arabic origin, including alkali, alcohol, alchemy, algebra, amalgam, zenith, nadir, cipher. Moslem mathematicians used the cipher, or zero, more than two centuries before it appeared in Europe.

What's In It For ME, Daddy?

"Will I be able to stay in Fulton when I grow up?"

"I hope so, darling."

"What are you doing about it now?"

"For one thing, I support the Fulton - South Fulton Chamber of Commerce."

"Why, Daddy?"

"Because they are on the job every day of the week— seeking to improve our communities— seeking to create more jobs— more opportunities for your generation— it's the American way of self-development."

"Then shouldn't everyone support the local Chamber of Commerce, daddy?"

"Of course! The improvement and development of the twin cities is their principal reason for existence; they are the ONLY organization in the twin Cities completely dedicated to this purpose."

These are the people who are working hardest to promote the interests of the Twin Cities; They are the members of the Chamber of Commerce:

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

Women's groups are always on the alert to find new and different ways to make money. We've seen and heard most everything—we thought—until Mildred Whipple called us to tell us about the "Try On A Hat" party to be held next Wednesday in Hickman. The event is being sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church there and it is the second annual event. Last year the ladies were contacted by a nationally advertised hat firm to sell its hats at the retail value and get a stipulated amount for each sale. They ordered 200 hats, (and not a duplication in the bunch), that sell for $3.95 and $4.95. They had wonderful success, and much fun in selling their wares.

This year the ladies have ordered 400 hats, in the same price range, and they are asking all of you to join with them in one "big hatted" field day. Actually, there's nothing that most women enjoy more than buying a new hat. Some doctors have even prescribed a new hat as therapy for that run-down, tired feeling. So now the WSCS of Hickman sends out the opportunity to look over 400 styles, try them on in leisure, and what's more get served light refreshments while enjoying such a pleasant pastime.

Mrs. H. G. Shaw is general chairman of the hat sale. She said that the hats are even more attractive this year than last. And still, the manufacturer says, that the consignment will contain very few duplications. "If we find any," Mildred said, "we will tag them to let our friends know if the style is duplicated in the shipment." You can't beat that for service, can you? If Mother Nature lets up on her chilling visit, why not make your plans to go over to Hickman to the hat buying spree and to enjoy visiting with our friends in hospitable Hickman. Some ladies who enjoyed the hat sale last year made a day of it. We might add that they came home with some mighty fine purchases and still supported a very worthy cause.

It never fails. Rarely do we take a trip around this state that we don't find somebody who knows somebody in Fulton. In Louisville last week we went into Stewart's Department Store to buy a gift for Mary Jo's birthday and happened to go to the saleslady that we were from Fulton. That bright look came into her face, as it does with anybody "who meets folks from 'home' and she told us that she was a native Ful-

Miss Bennett and Mr. Tucker Are Married In Lovely Winter Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dewain Tucker

Miss Darlena Ann Bennett became the bride of Lewis Dewain Tucker on January 12, 1963 in the Crutchfield Baptist Church. Rev. Ira Henderson performed the double ring ceremony at eight o'clock in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Bennett of Fulton Route 3. The groom is the son of Mrs. Dixie Henderson and the late Marvin A. Tucker of Wingo.

Miss Sherry Tuck presented a program of nuptial music.

Vows were exchanged before a wrought iron arch, entwined with huckleberry, and centered with white wedding bells, tied with white satin ribbons. At either side of the arch were seven branch candelabra in which burned white tapers, with baskets of white gladiolus and greenery decorating the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Larry Sims, wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace designed by Bridal Original. Her jewelry was a string of small pearls, a gift of the groom. Her veil of imported tulle and Chantilly lace was attached to a tiara of a seed pearl half crown. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, tied in love knots.

Miss Linda Watts was the maid of honor. Her dress was a deep blue taffeta. Her accessories were blue and white and she carried a bouquet of white pompons.

Miss Brenda Bennett, sister of the bride and Miss Connie Henderson were bridesmaids. They were attired identically in Baltic blue and white Stacy Ames Originals, and wore matching circular hats and their bouquets were white pompons.

Marsha Stephenson, cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She carried a basket of white petals and wore a sugar blue net gown over taffeta.

Frankie James was best man and Phillip Stephenson and Donald James were ushers.

Mrs. Bennett, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a navy wool sheath dress with matching accessories and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

The mother of the groom wore a butterfly pink lace dress with beige accessories and her corsage was of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the annex of the church, which was decorated with green and white. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Larry Sims, sister of the bride at the punch bowl and Mrs. Collier Stephenson, aunt of the groom, served the cake.

Miss Wanda Tucker, cousin of the groom, kept the guest register. For traveling, Mrs. Tucker, wore a light blue wool dress and matching accessories. She wore an orchid from the bride's bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will reside at Wingo, Kentucky.

Efficiency Can Cut Postal Costs Expert Says; Points To Decreasing Phone Rates

Since January 7 the lightest, thinnest, first class letter in a sealed envelope now costs five cents to send—for the second time in American history. Perhaps this is a happy augury: the earlier nickel letter gave way to lower postage because the Postal Service lowered its costs per letter. That was in 1851.

How high are postal costs? This year total appropriations for the postal establishment are 4.5 billion dollars. How much is that? Well, the whole Government of the United States, including national debt service and veterans' benefits, was run on only a little more than that amount in 1932-33—approximately 5 billion dollars.

People were cussing about high taxes even then, of course, but the point is that this upward sweep has taken place in such a short span of time. Just since the end of World War II, postal costs have about quadrupled. With only one slight interruption, they have risen from $1.1 billion in 1945 to an estimated $4.5 billion for fiscal 1963.

If that postal cost experience were to continue and postal technology remain largely unchanged, budget requirements in the next 17 years would reach an appalling level. The Postmaster General himself is the source of that view.

Can the Postal Service cut its costs per unit? Experts say it certainly can, and they point to what has been done by at least one major communication service, and by some of the outstanding distribution businesses of the country.

COMMUNICATIONS

A long-distance telephone call from coast to coast that can be made today for $2.25 cost $16.50 in the nineteen twenties, just before the telephone company began to automate its service, gradually, progressively, a stage at a time until now from almost any phone in the country you can dial direct to almost any other.

In this time, by the way, telephone employment has multiplied 2 1/2 times to 730,000 men and women. The A. T. & T. could not have tackled it all at once; it could not have done it all unless

State Telephone Rates Reduced, PSC Announces

Reduced telephone rates on most in-state toll calls will go into effect January 21 and will save Kentuckians about $191,000 each year, the State Public Service Commission has announced.

Lower rates offered by Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company apply only to person-to-person calls made at night and on Sundays, P. S. C. Chairman J. David Francis said. Reductions will range from five cents to 70 cents on the initial two minutes of the calls, depending on the distance. No changes were made on the over-time rates.

The new rate schedule will bring tolls on in-state long distance calls more in line with calls to out-of-state parties. In the past, the Kentucky telephone user paid more to talk with a Covington party than he did to call across the state line to Cincinnati.

No change was made in the 35-cent rate which covers calls made in a 10-mile radius.

Southern Bell will make up the loss of revenue partly through a bookkeeping transaction which will transfer money from intra-state to interstate operations.

The changes had been made a step at a time.

The Postal Service, by contrast, having also obtained its first mechanizing equipment in the twenties, has not spent any important amount in improving basic processes of sorting, handling and distributing mail. The Post Office reported to Congress in 1962 that from 1951 through 1962, a period of 12 years, it has spent only $41.9 million on research and development and only $80 million on major mechanization, or a total of $122 million. The department said it had 183 machines in 85 offices.

Contrast these figures: Of every $100 in appropriations, the Post Office spends only 33 cents for research, development and mechanization. Private industry, on the other hand, spends an average of $3 out of every $100 for research alone.

And these: The Post Office has told Congress that its investment in mechanical equipment per employee is $700. For all U. S. industry, the average is $2,000 per employee.

DISTRIBUTION

A different story of handling distribution costs is found in the food chain business. One example: The A&P had 15,709 stores in 39 states in the 1930s and found the numerous small locations eating up profit opportunities. By 1962 it had consolidated its stores to 4,409 supermarkets in the same 39 states. In doing so it multiplied its floor space, the volume of business done and the number of customers served. Employment tripled in the same period.

By contrast, the Postal Service in this motor age maintains 35,000 distribution points. In Westchester County, famous as the "bedroom community" for commuting New Yorkers—overwhelmingly the two-car family type—there is on the average one post office for each 4,040 residents. The county has 59 post offices and 150 branches where mail is handled almost precisely as it was in 1890. What's more, these 200 postal service stations are less than 2 1/2 miles apart.

With such a history, why should we expect anything different in the future?

Three factors are present: 1. For many users costs are reaching the point of diminishing returns. There are other ways to communicate than by mail, and other ways to distribute papers, magazines, packages and information. Another rate hike or two will greatly increase the attraction of alternate means.

2. Even the banks can now sort and distribute checks, coast to coast, despite the infinity of illegible signatures, on a virtual "no hands" basis. The advance of electronics makes possible adoption—on a step-by-step, progressive basis—of means which will lift the load from people's backs, which will relieve them of visual and manual sorting—and slash costs.

3. Congress itself has shown a vigorous interest, and the President of the United States has asked that every Government establishment step up its productivity. In Congress, the Senate's standing committee responsible for postal affairs—led by Senator Johnston and Carlson—has declared Congress has to study and stay with this subject. If it seeks money and authority to investigate, as is expected, pressure for action will be on. In the past, Congressmen have not been unfriendly, naturally, to more postal buildings and employees in their home districts, but when costs get as high as they are now, something has to happen.

Can people in general help do anything about it? Yes, indeed. They can help their offices get more of the mail out early in the day, and spread their own personal mail, payments of bills, etc., throughout the month. They can be more accurate in the use of zone numbers and more careful to address mail legibly.

People can support the many mail user groups that are encouraging the post office to modernize.

Of course, they can also have something to say when they talk to their Congressmen, and they can support their Senators in the coming studies.

OPTIMISM

The mistake of optimistic people is not in expecting too much of the future, but in exacting too little from the present.

City Manager Form Of Government Gains In Popularity Among American Cities

The council-manager form of city government, which is the type in operation in Fulton, Ky., apparently is gaining wide acceptance over the nation.

A report from the International City Managers' Assn. indicated that 1962 saw 93 more communities in the United States and Canada adopt the plan.

The form of government is now in use by 1,891 communities in North America and is the most popular form of local government in cities of 25,000 to 250,000 population. More than half the cities in this population group are council-manager cities, according to the "1963 Directory of City Managers' Assn."

Leading the states with communities adopting the plan in 1962 was Pennsylvania with 11, followed by North Carolina with 10, California, Michigan, and Texas each reported seven new council-manager plan adoptions. Fourteen new council-manager cities were reported from Canada.

Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, with a population of 272,111, was the largest of eight counties that adopted the plan. Among the larger cities which will be added to the 1963 Directory are Reading, Pa., (98,177), Chesapeake, Va. (73,600), and St. John, New Brunswick, Canada (52,491).

Since 1950 the number of cities using the council-manager plan has increased an average of 70 per year. Sixteen of the 51 cities with population in excess of a quarter-million are council-manager cities. Four of these have populations in excess of a half-million: San Antonio and Dallas, Texas; San Diego, California; and Cincinnati, Ohio. The largest local government with the council-manager plan is Dade County (Miami), Florida, which has a population of 935,047.

First District P-TA Groups Ready To Honor Founders With Programs

Parent-Teacher Associations throughout the nation, including the 81 units and four councils in First District, will observe the 66th anniversary of their organization's founding on Founders Day, February 17th.

Each local unit is scheduled to have a silver tea during the month of February in honor of Alice McLellan Birney and Phoebe Apperson Hearst who laid plans for the first Congress of Mothers to be held in Washington, D. C. on February 17, 1897, and for their own past presidents and leaders.

It was decided at this meeting that a permanent organization of parents and teachers should be set up to promote the welfare of all school children. To achieve the desired results, it was decided that each organization should be set up on the state level with community units to undergird them.

The Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers had a membership of 600 when it joined the National organization on April 17, 1918. It now has well over 210,000 members. The membership of the national is over 12,000,000 with headquarters in Chicago.

Mrs. Karl Bader of Louisville is State President and Mrs. Clifford N. Jenkins of Long Island, N. Y. is National Chairman.

The First District is made up of units in 13 counties. Mrs. Erl Sensing of Clinton is First District President. Mrs. J. T. Rice of Keok is District Publicity Chairman. Several persons from the First District serve on the State Board, besides Mrs. Sensing, including Mrs. James Gabberry of Paducah, State Treasurer and District Membership Chairman, Mrs. E. T. Callender, Reidland, State Council Advisor, Mrs. W. L. Bennett, Reidland, Parliamentarian. The District membership is near 20,000 members.

Life memberships are presented to many worthy persons during the observances, the funds which are used for scholarships for teachers. Founders Day offerings are used for Extension work.

UK Plans Award To Fulton High

The senior with the highest scholastic ranking in the 1963 graduating class at Fulton City High School will receive an award for high scholastic achievement from the University of Kentucky Alumni Association.

The announcement of the award was made by J. M. Martin, principal. The local high school is joining the Alumni Association and other high schools across the state to honor outstanding students. James Sutherland, president of the U. K. organization, declared that such a project is long overdue in these days of "perplexing problems and daily concerns."

The award to be presented at school ceremonies will be sent to the school in the spring. Alumni officials are hoping that in the future cash awards may be made to permit recipients to further their education.

Governor Clement—

"We also think that our suggestions for obtaining increased revenues from some items which are not necessities reflect the general sentiment of the public."

"We feel that business should support its fair share of the advancements in the programs proposed, many of which will be of benefit to business."

Clement said the increases he proposed were necessary to keep state government on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Clement called for enactment of a local option revenue bill which would enable municipal and county governments to broaden their tax base. He said such legislation should have a provision that would allow the people affected by any new proposed local taxes to have an opportunity to vote on them. He listed no specific taxes and local government officials have indicated they want authority to levy any taxes their people favor.

Mrs. Mike Nanney who had surgery at the Baptist Hospital in Memphis last week is improving nicely and expects to be dismissed soon.

Mrs. Mack Brown is a patient at the Obion County Hospital and has had surgery there.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Irvin Shanklin who passed away at the Obion County Hospital after a long illness. Neal

Shanklin who formerly lived in this community is one of the sons.

Mrs. Richard Palmer is reported to be in a very critical condition at the Obion County Hospital. Mrs. Palmer was injured in a fall several weeks ago and was in the Campbell Clinic for some time and appeared to be improving and was brought to her home, but her condition has become critical at this time.

Mrs. Jessie Brown is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Durrell Terrell.

The calls have been delayed by some of the March of Dimes workers due to the weather, but each home in the community will be visited within the next few days.
